To whom it may concern:

This reference letter is a strong recommendation for Black and White Construction, and more specifically Greg Simmons, for any construction project that you are considering him for. Last year Greg built the office for my company and although he came recommended to me, he was able to surpass any expectations I had prior to my office build. At each stage of my office build, Greg was there with his sub-contractors ensuring that the job was completed beyond my standards. The job site was kept clean and Greg made it a point to inform me of the progress at each stage. Additionally, Greg completed the job on time and at a price that was much better than any bid I had received prior to the bid from Black and White Construction.

Black and White is one of those rare construction companies that is as concerned about building a exceptional product as they are about taking care of the customers' needs. I have heard all sorts of horror stories about dishonest and unqualified contractors and can tell you that was never a concern I had before, during, or after Black and White Construction completed my office. Greg and his team of professionals are up to date on the latest products and completely up front about cost and time frames. You will be please with your choice to hire Black and White Construction for your home or commercial needs.
